

C-Path's Martinez Joins Help4HD Podcast in Special Guest Segment

Critical Path Institute's Executive Director of its Huntington's Disease Regulatory Science Consortium (HD-RSC), joined Help for HD podcast host Lauren Holder for a recent discussion on the latest in Huntington's Disease research. Lauren and Terina discuss the current tools available in the HD research toolbox, the future of HD research, and important work HD-RSC is doing to collect and curate data in an effort to advance drug development for people living with HD. Lauren was also a recent guest and panelist at C-Path's Global Impact Conference, and discusses the key learnings coming out of the conference, as well as the importance of getting the researchers, advocates, and regulators driven to find better treatments in HD together in conferences like these.

Listen to the lively discussion here:

Listen now

