

Literature review to characterize the empirical basis for response scale selection in pediatric populations